HISTORY NOTE:

Introduction.

This Chapter regulates the exercise of treaty fishing rights in the Great Lakes and connecting waters ceded by the Treaty of March 28, 1836; 7 Stat. 491. These fishing rights have been the subject of extensive litigation, as recounted in the Cases section below.

Three tribes participate in the treaty fishery: the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians, Bay Mills Indian Community, and Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians. In 1980, these tribes formed the Chippewa-Ottawa Treaty Fishery Management Authority (COTFMA) to formulate policy and promulgate regulations on an intertribal basis. In 1981, COTFMA promulgated its first set of treaty fishing regulations, and COTFMA has regulated the treaty fishery ever since.

The COTFMA regulations are extensive and comprehensive. They are not reproduced as a part of this Tribal Code, but they are readily available from COTFMA. This Chapter instead includes only those supplemental regulations governing treaty fishing that are unique to the Tribe.

The treaty fishery is currently conducted and regulated under an Agreement for Entry of Consent Order filed in United States v. Michigan, WD Mich No M26 73CA on May 31, 1985. 12 Indian L Rep 3079. The Agreement will expire in the year 2000. The Agreement provides a mechanism by which the parties -- the three treaty tribes, the State of Michigan, and the United States -- can resolve disputes over regulation of the fishery.
